

Community Engagement, Advocacy and Communications

Communications and Marketing Officer

76 hours per fortnight (1 EFT)

Ongoing

The Position

We're seeking an experienced and creative storyteller with a strong interest in health and wellbeing, social justice and achieving a more equitable society.

This is a broad role that offers the opportunity to engage with diverse teams and communities, allowing you to meet and connect with people from different backgrounds and circumstances.

The Communications and Marketing Officer will be responsible for supporting the development, distribution and promotion of BCHS messaging, using a variety of channels.

The role will require the development and maintenance of relationships with key media stakeholders, as well as working closely with the BCHS staff internally to develop content and messaging.

To successfully apply for this position you will need:

1. To be able to deliver high quality, relevant content across multiple channels
2. Experience with implementing media and marketing strategies
3. The ability to assist with events planning and other 'on brand' promotional activities
4. Ability to provide vaccination status information that meets the requirements for healthcare workers.
